

GRIT Newsletter

Thoughts from the artistic director:

I cannot express how grateful I am right now, to meet with the GRIT crew once a week and play, explore, investigate and make new meaningful connections with likeminded individuals. Coming to workshop is my reward each week, so refreshing, meaningful and something I get such enjoyment from, thank you family!

We have been learning this term, that anything is possible. If you put your mind to it, imagine it, believe it, want it, anything is possible.

Through performance art, inventing scenes, creating characters, devising scripts, and seeing our creations come to life, we learn how to work with understanding and empathy for one another, have an emotional intelligence, resilience, and grounding in ourselves, and the world around us.

Kerry Ireland & Simone Avramidis

Kerry and I learn so much from working with your children. They keep it real and continually remind us of the importance of play, taking risks and stepping outside comfort zones while being honest, brave, and connecting to intuition, emotions, and feelings.

We are all so happy to be back with one another! Thank you, families, for your continual support and patience. As one student commented "I am so grateful to my parents bringing me to GRIT each week" thank you our wonderful families!

Lots coming up, spread the word to your friend, stay in touch, hope you can be part of it!
